PITTSBURGH, PA., November 11 .-In the Supreme Court to-day was argued the suit of Rev. John Wides sgainst John A. McKee, Alexander McMilligan, James R. W. Sloan, and David B. Wilson, of this city, for forming an unlawful conspiracy to defame the plaintiff. The plaintiff says defendants conspired with G. M. Elliott, Mary Miller, J. B. Pickens, and Duncan Ecols in the Commonwealth of Alabama, and J. M. Farris, of Illinois, and Rev. David B. Gregg, of New York, to defame his character.

The plaintiff is a colored man, and was sent by the Freedmen's Bureau to teach and preach in Alabama to the colored people. He became unpopular down there, and was tried in the Ecclesiastical Court and removed from his position. The defendants in this suit, he alleges, were instrumental in causing his removal, as well as having published the slander that he was a monomaniac on certain subjects. Decision

GLADSTONE IN SCOTLAND. Overfon to the Ex-Premier in Edinburgh Itis Speech-The Question of Disestablish

By cable to the Dispatch. EDINBURGH, November 11 .- Gladstone and wife and Lord Rosebeury and wife to-day drove in a carriage from Dalmeny Park through the principal thoroughfares to Free Assembly Hall. Crowds of people Haed the route, and great enthusiasm was manifested at the appearance of Gladstone. On reaching the hall Gladstone found it literally packed with human beings awaiting to hear his address. Gladstone said i was impossible for Parliament to deal with the Irish question satisfactorily except by the action of a party powerful enough to act independently of the Irish vote. According to Tory as well as Liberal reports, such a party in the coming Parliament can only be a Liberal party. The consideration was more than ordinarily important. Indeed it was of the highest imperial importance "Passing to a subject less important," said Gladstone, "I am reluctantly compelled to refer to personal matters. BALTIMORE, November 11 .- Dr. D. I am unable to understand the reason. but it undoubtedly has become the fashion among a portion of the Tories to circulate, concerning myself, an unbounded assortment of most gratuitous untruths. This is a mode of warfare decrees to the apostolic delegate and that the Liberals have never indulged in, and I believe that the bulk of respectable Tories disapprove it. These untruths return to me in the shape of voluminous correspondence daily from all parts of the country, and I ask my friends to receive all such statements with resolute incredulity until their makers

During a former campaign I remember having flatly denied twelve untruths way into print in connection with the | in a single letter. Some of the untruths work of the late council. He then now circulated say I possess a large quantity of land in Russia; another accuses me of felling trees on Sundays : asked the Liberal Parliamentary party last session to vote against matters, so to speak-matters inside of their consciences; fifth, that I opposed the abelition of flogging is the army, whereas I spoke and voted in its favor; and sixth, that I voted against household suffrage. Such are specimens of the newest untruths circulated. In order to prove that I am not exaggerating, I have in my pockets the statements of three Tory andidates-Messrs. Ayers, Sidebottom, and Duncan. The last warns his constituents of gross inaccuries of the Radicals. He then lyingly ac cuses me of opposing the house-hold franchise, which I not only did not oppose, but I engage a newspaper war with Lord Sherbrooke over the matter, he opposing and I advocating the extension of the suffrage. I hope this exposure will save trouble to those whose fears and apprehensions the Tories seek to excite illegitimately. I now enter a graver subject - disestablishment - not cause it is an immediate and urgent necessity, but in order to remove widespread misapprehensions." Mr. Gladstone here referred to the sixteenth section of his election mani festo, which is as follows : " When the subject of State religion comes into discussion, although it has been more than elsewhere, and although a lively feeling, as was naturally to be expected principally arrest attention. Bearing in mind all the circumstances of the question, in connection with the length plead for an exemption from all share in this controversy. But having regard, on the other hand, to the deep interest felt in it, with strong conviction on the part of so many whose confidence I have enjoyed, I think it right to say a few words, if they only discussion at to-morrow's meeting, tions and to mitigate alarms which appear to me exaggerated, though they are entertained by many whom, both officially and personally, I revere. With respect to the severance of the Church of England from the State I think it obvious that so vast a question cannot become practical until it shall have grown familiar to the sion, with the further condition that the proposal, when thoroughly discussed shall be approved. Neither, I think, can such a change arise in such a country as ours except with a larger observance of the principles of equity and liberality, as well as with the general consent of the nation. We can hardly, however, be surprised if those observe that the current alwho most throughout the civilized world slowly sets in this direction should desire or fear that among ourselves, too, it may be found to operate. I cannot forecast the dim and distant courses of the future, but like all others. I have observed that vast and ever-increasing development for the last fifty years, both at home and abroad, in the Church to which I belong of the powers of voluntary support. Those abridgements of her pre rogatives as an establishment, which have been frequent of late years, have not brought about a decrease, and have at least been contemporaneous with an increase of her spiritual and social strength. By devotedness of life and by solidity of labor the clergy are laying a good foundation for all time to come. The attachment of the laity improves, if I may so speak, both in quantity and quality. The English Church also appears to be eminently suited, in many and weighty points, to the needs of coming time, and I have a strong conviction that if this great modification of our inherited institutions shall hereafter be accomplished the vitality of the Church of England will be found equal to all the needs of the occasion." Gladstone then said: When I wrote this section I considered it a posthumous requisite, fully believing-and I still retain the belief-that I never should be called upon to share in practical consular and Oriental Steam-Navigation troversies in relation thereto. What I am Company's steamer Indus, from Cal about to say relates chiefly to the cutta for London, has been totally Church of England. FREE-TRADERS IN COUNCIL. THE NATIONAL CONFERENCE. Two Hundred Delegates Present-Report and by Other Prominent Persons.

(By telegraph to the Dispatch.) CHICAGO, November 11 .- The National Conference of Free-Traders and Revenue-Reformers met in Haverly's Minstrel Hall shortly after 10 o'close this morning. Some two hundred delegates were in attendance from all parts of the country. The Conference was called to order by the president, Hon. David A. Wells, after which General Stiles, of Chicago, delivered an address of welcome. Some routine business was transacted, and then the report of R. R. Bowker, honorary secretary of the Conference, was read. Mr. Bowker stated that there were State organizations in behalf of revenue reform in thirteen States and local organizations in many other States. Most of these are in relation with the American Free-Trade League, which is now organized as a national association.

Mr. Bowker hoped the Conference would select a man from each State who would become a promoter of the organization throughout his State, and its general representative in relation to the free-trade movement. He urged upon free-traders the necessity planning for the great campaign, the first step towards which is the raising of a fund of $20,000, which will be needed this and next year in view of the congressional elections of 1886. third of that sum is already pledged ; "and," said Mr. Bowker, "we will show before New-Year's day, 1887. such use of it that the country wil then come to our support as England

[By telegraph to the Dispatch.] BALTIMORE, November 11 .- The Board of Trustees of the Catholic University met at the Arch-Episcopal res dence to-day at noon. There were pre-sent Archbishops Gibbons, of Baltimore; Williams, of Boston; Ryan. of Philadelphia, and Corrighan, of New able him to read it. His breakfast York; Bishops Ireland, of St. Paul consists of thin porridge and brown Keane, of Richmond : Spalding, of Peoria; Martyr, of Dakota; Monseignor John M. Farley, of New York, and Rev. Drs. Foley, of Baltimore, and Chapelle, of Washington, D. C. Mesers. Jenkins, of Baltimore; Thomas E. Waggaman, of Washington, and Eugene Kelley, of New York, were also in attendance. The session lasted which this year was October 19th. Stead will, therefore, be released on until 1:30 o'clock, when the committee adjourned for dinner. The trustees were entertained at dinner by Archbishop Gibbons. A prominent member of the conference intimated that the trustees had very important matters under consideration, and that the result of the conference would show that the work of the University was progressing most favorably. The Cathoic clergy and laity, he further said, would be agreeably surprised at the gratifying exhibit which the trustees would be prepared to show at the adjournment of the session.

At the afternoon session Bishops Ireland, of St. Paul; Keane, of Richmond; Spalding, of Peoria, and Martyr, of Dakota, were authorized to visit the various dioceses to collect funds raise $700,000 in this manner which, with Miss Caldwell's donation of $300,-000, will give the University $1,000,000 to start with. The Archbishop of Bos ton has charge of the plans of the build ing to be erected.

To-morrow the members of the University Board will visit Washington and qualify as a corporation, after which they will hold a meeting at St. Matthews church to adopt the necessary by-laws. In the letter brought by Dr. O'Connell to Archbishop Gibbons from Pope Leo XIII., in which His Holiness expresses the great grati-tude it afforded him to learn to learn the Archbishop of Baltimore, with his colleagues, the bishops of America, had conceived the noble design of erecting a Catholic University in America, he says : "No doubt under the auspices, patronage and care of the bishops the University will prove a great blessing not only to religion, but also to the country for the glory of Catholicity and the increase of literature and science." A letter was also received by the Archbishop from Cardinal Newman full of cordial sympathy.

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET

NEW YORK STOCK MARKET.

New YORK, November 11.—The recent hesitancy in the stock market has been followed lo-day by increased activity and a strong lote during the forenous, which developed into bucy ancy hater in the day; but one of the most prominent features of the narket continues to be the extreme activity and apparent strength in a few stocas, to the naglect of the rest. An analysis of the francations from day to day discloses the fact that this activity is not conduct to a few stocas, but that two or three stocks will be taken in hand and marked up 1 or 2 per cm. and hen dropped for others which will be subjected to the same treatment. Ere contributed 96 90c shares to to-day's business, against 11.30c shares yesterday. Frie. St. Faul. and Las Bhore furnished. 240,000 shares, against also also do shares yessolution was adopted at a meeting of the Western Nail Association held on this day:

Resolved, That under ordinary circumstances the Western Nail Association would not hesitate to enter upon negotiations, but the necessity forced upon us by the United Nailers of America in the early part of this controversy of employing a new set of workmen and our obligations to these "new nailers" are such that we could not entertain any proposition that would interfere with these obligations. We therefore respectfully decline to enter upon negotiations with the United Nailers of America, but assure all competent nailers everywhere that so far as we have machines in our several mills to give they will be given to such nailers and feeders who may desire to become nailers as may be willing to accept our manufacturers' scale, and work with and on the same terms and conditions as our present workmen.

Yours respectfully.

Genge Wise, Secretary.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

EXURVE OF THE CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, November 11.—There was more

REVIEW OF THE CHICAGO MARKET.
CHICAGO, November 11.—There was more interest to-day in pork and corn than in wheat. In the latter there was the most bundrum market imaginable, with just as little action as possible. Wheat for becember opened at $8%, got up to $88, and did not get below $8%,288%. The receipts of corn to-day were but 102 cars, and the crowd of shorts was struck with one of the little panics which come so unexpectedly when trading is as dull as it has been fately. November went from 45 to 47c, with not half a dozen trades, and with only four or five intervening quotations priess dropped just as suddenly to under 45c. There is nothing new in the situation. The advance is partly manipulation and partly natural. On November 15th the marine insurance companies refuse to write risks. Vessels that go out after that are few, and charge high rates. Whatever corn goes forward after staurday must go by rail, and pay 25c. per hundred freight to reach New York. This fact has been known right allong and the people in the Past who have speculative inclinations have bought and shipped by lake, taking chances that after the lake closed with the advance in cost of transportation the price at seaboard would advance. These two demands on cash corn have been supplemented by the demands of shorts. November is always from time away back in June and July, when it begins to be traded, in, the favorite to sell; so is all the year. The result is that there is now undonletedly a large corn shortage, which has accumulated within the last six months.
